

Sims-Giddens, S. and McGinley, R.

Development of Immunization Clinics To Be Held in Individual Schools.

To improve immunization compliance, Immunization Clinics were developed and held in Middle Schools. Immunization permission forms and a schedule of immunization administration increased the overall compliance for students and the school system as a whole.

The Neuman Health-Care Systems Model of Nursing and Tyrell's Transformation Visioning Leadership were utilized to implement this project. The outcome of this project is improved community health and to maintain school compliance with federal standards.