

Sims-Giddens, S. (Ed.) and Moriarty, H.

Increasing Patient Recruitment Skills For A Research Center.

A program of recruitment strategies was developed and presented to improve research coordinators' knowledge and ability.

The Interactional Leadership Theory was used to involve coordinators in identifying recruitment barriers, establishing priorities, and using new recruitment strategies. The project outcome is a more efficient use of staff time and agency resources.