

Sims-Giddens, S. (Ed.) and Myers, K.

Implementing a New Patient Satisfaction Program.

Transformational Leadership Theory was used to develop an inservice on a new patient satisfaction program. Incorporating a vision for the future of a department in an acute care setting, a new program was presented and well received by staff. The program outcomes include increased patient satisfaction with care received and increased job satisfaction for staff.