

Sims-Giddens, S. (Ed.) and Drennon, P. Creating a Safe Haven for Homeless Men.

A local drop-in center for homeless men offers laundry facilities, showers, the opportunity to use a telephone, and assessment for mental health referral. The physical environment at the drop-in center was improved to provide a safe and healthy environment in addition to an improved aesthetic appearance.

Transformational Leadership Theory was utilized to seek staff input and support staff through the environmental changes within the center. Working as a team, the outcome of this project was a clean and safe physical environment for a vulnerable population.