As our University moves toward a model of Inclusive Excellence we must embrace disability as a part of diversity and value it as an integral part of life. This book series will enlighten you on issues surrounding disability, how it is a valued part of diversity, and the importance of instilling the socio-political model of disability in our teaching and in our students. Come and explore the importance of infusing this rich history and culture

“Participants with disabilities who may not be able to fully participate because of the instructional format or design of the program may request an accommodation by contacting (details above) the Faculty Center for Teaching and Learning in advance.”
