The Honors College provides a program of enhanced, advanced study and recognition for students of unusually strong academic ability and motivation. It offers them small classes taught by well-qualified, highly recommended teachers. Honors courses, sections and components must have the following characteristics:

1. Reading intensive, including primary sources and books and journals that reflect recent scholarship.
2. Class format should nourish a free exchange of ideas, innovation and creativity.
3. Research projects that include critical analysis and/or interpretation.
4. Tests that require synthesis and critical evaluation in written or oral form of course and reading material.

NOTE: Faculty who teach honors courses, sections and components should not expect a normal distribution of grades, nor should they use norm-referenced grading.

Please write (or attach) a short statement explaining how the honors section you will teach will fulfill the above expectations.
