How do you describe the course to students when they ask “What is this class about?” (Without using the catalog description)?

UHC 110 is an introduction to teaching and learning styles in the Honors College, as well as a resource for transition to the university and success during your first year.

Beyond meeting a General Education requirement, what benefits can students realize from choosing this course?

UHC 110 is a requirement for all students wishing to graduate from the Honors College. Students will build a personal relationship with an Honors College faculty member. Students will meet and study alongside their peers in the Honors College. Students will explore a thematic specialization of their choice.

Other than your major/minor/certificate students, what groups of students could find this course relevant to their degree program or career path?

UHC 110 is only open to first-year students in the Honors College.

Catalog Description (Fall 2022 Undergraduate Catalog)

This seminar will be on a topic of intellectual significance. The student will be required to use the library, research, and faculty resources available in the University. Satisfies the First-Year Foundations requirement in the Basic Required Courses of General Education. Open to Honors College members only. Variable content course.
