ABOUT

This course aims to introduce students to the history, religions and politics of modern Israel-Palestine. Students will learn about the historical events and personages that became central to the construction of modern Zionism, visiting key historical, political and religious sites throughout the country. By actually going to the places where crucial historical events occurred in Israel-Palestine, the issues under discussion will move from the realm of abstraction to a more immediate, understandable and tangible appreciation. This includes guest lectures from prominent thinkers in Israeli and Palestinian society and meetings with people from various regions of the country. From the Holocaust museum, 1948 and 1967 battle sites and holy places of Jerusalem to Arab and Druze villages of the Galilee and modern Tel Aviv, students will see things first-hand. Hikes in the Galilee, Golan and Dead Sea valley will also provide students with a sense of the geography of the land.
