GENERALLY SPEAKING

A friend recently commented that we are in a golden age of documentary filmmaking. He named a few popular titles, and asked if I was worried about what this stiff competition meant for public television. I chuckled. He didn't; he was serious.

Moments like this remind me that, while public broadcasters excel at storytelling, we sometimes forget to tell our story. So, I took the opportunity to share public television's unique approach to documentary filmmaking... and why it matters.

PBS provides (online, if you're interested) aspiring producers with an extensive review of the editorial standards that guide our programming. It details the principles to which filmmakers must rigorously adhere – independence, accuracy, fairness, transparency, inclusiveness, and accountability – and provides some blunt reminders of our core values (e.g. "PBS treats the public as citizens rather than consumers."). This document is just the beginning of a long process that culminates in the shows you see on OPT, ensuring that content creators never lose sight of our purpose: to serve the public interest and preserve the public's trust.

There is a lot of entertaining programming available from many different sources, to be sure. But, when you peek behind the curtain, they're not all created equally. As we each navigate this "golden age of documentaries", I find great comfort in the high bar that PBS has set for filmmakers. Thank you for supporting storytelling that not only entertains and inspires... but also demonstrates the deepest respect for the viewer, the subject, and the truth.

Call the Midwife

Sundays at 7 p.m. starting October 3

It's 1966, and it's a testing time for the midwives. But there's excitement, too, as the women's rights movement intensifies. With Trixie's help, Sister Julianne is determined to steer Nonnatus House out of its financial quandary. Dr. Turner deals with an array of difficult cases including a former soldier involved in nuclear test explosions. Sister Monica Joan experiences a crisis of faith. Sister Frances realizes she needs to be a little less spiritual if she's to really connect with the local women.

American Veteran

8 p.m. Tuesday, October 26

This multi-part series illuminates the veteran experience with a stunning range of voices from today and across the arc of American history. From the citizen-soldiers returning from the American Revolution to today's warrior class, hear deeply moving stories, highlighting personal remembrances, drawing civilian viewers into an unfamiliar culture, and highlighting the evolving relationship between Americans who have served in the military and those who have not.

Nature

Wednesdays at 7 p.m. starting October 20

Nature celebrates its 40th anniversary with new episodes! The season premieres with My Garden of a Thousand Bees, which follows wildlife cameraman Martin Dohrn, who filmed all the bees he could find in his tiny urban garden in Bristol, England, during the COVID-19 lockdown. By the end of the summer, Dohrn saw more than 60 species of bees!

Secrets of the Dead

Lady Sapiens

9 p.m. Wednesday, October 27

Incredible scientific investigations from across the globe are helping piece together the untold story of prehistoric women. The latest research separates fact from fiction and sheds new light on our ancient foremothers.

American Masters – Rita Moreno: Just a Girl Who Decided to Go For It

8 p.m. Tuesday, October 5

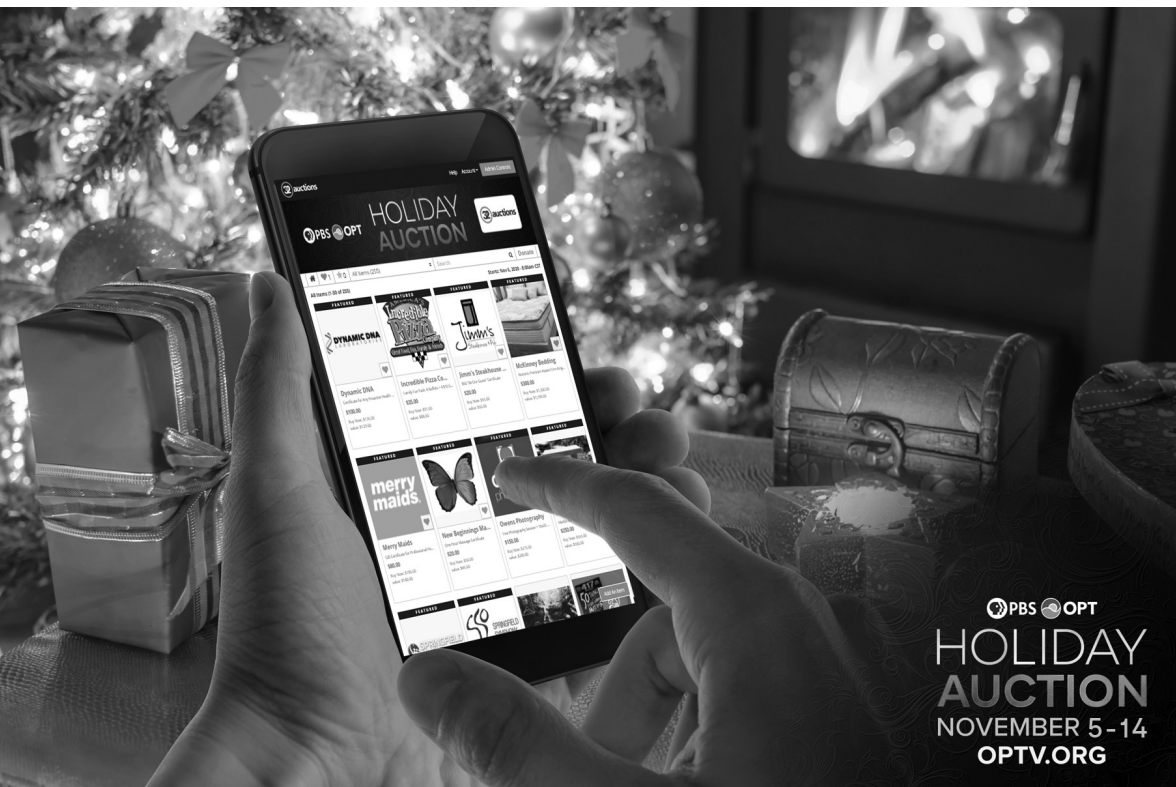

Discover how Moreno defied her humble upbringing and racism to become one of a select group of Emmy, Grammy, Oscar and Tony Award winners. Explore her 70-year career with new interviews, clips of her iconic roles and scenes of the star on set today.

Grantchester on Masterpiece

Sundays at 8 p.m. starting October 3

It's Season 6 on Grantchester, and with trouble brewing in town, it's going to take all of Will's skills and empathy to navigate these choppy waters and help the ones he loves.
