Resolution for Faculty Representation on Committees Dealing with Disruptive Behavior of Students

Whereas, there is a growing frequency of disruptive students on college campuses that present a danger to students and faculty, and

Whereas it is the faculty’s responsibility to provide students a safe and secure learning environment free of bullying and harassment, and

Whereas it is the faculty’s responsibility to report aggressive behavior in the classroom, and

Whereas faculty members are being trained to respond to an active shooter,

Be it resolved, that the faculty and the Office of the Provost be substantively represented on committees such as the Behavioral Intervention Team that recommend disciplinary action for students who have displayed disruptive behavior, and

Be it resolved, that the decisions and recommendations of these committees be binding.
A septennial review of the Faculty Handbook is mandated:

16.2.3.2.2. SEVEN-YEAR REVIEW OF THE FACULTY HANDBOOK

The Committee shall conduct a complete review and revision of the Faculty Handbook every seven years. In all cases, the Committee shall seek to reach a reasoned consensus. The Committee shall file a report with the Faculty Senate in a timely fashion stating the Committee's recommended action.

The FHRC is obligated to complete its revisions during the current academic year. The “shall seek to reach a reasoned consensus” language in the mandate is normally interpreted as meaning that FHRC will present proposed revisions to the Senate for feedback prior to any final approval process. (FHRC is also seeking feedback from the administration.) In practical terms, the requirement to state the Committee’s recommended action to the Senate “in a timely fashion” means that a final version of the revisions must be presented, at the latest, at the April session of the Faculty Senate (the May session will have a large turnover of Senators). To meet its dual obligations of seeking consensus and presenting a final version of the revisions in a timely fashion, it is essential that dialog about proposed changes be started as soon as possible. It will be necessary for FHRC to present several chapters to Senate at each of the next several meetings so that all revisions may be presented by the March meeting at the latest.

At this point, the FHRC has completed drafts on Chapters 1, 2, 3, and 5 of the Handbook and would like each of these on the agenda for the Faculty Senate’s December meeting. For each, I have included both original versions of each chapter plus a revision document that shows both the original with revision and final versions. For Chapter 1, I have also included an explanatory note.

FHRC has made significant progress on Chapters 4, 6, 7, and 8, and will almost certainly have these chapters complete, along with some additional revisions (Chapters 9 – 11 likely), in time for the January Senate meeting. We should have most of the rest in time for the February meeting, with hopefully a minimal residual for March (also allowing time to revising any seriously contentious revisions).

3. What justification is being provided to support this proposal? (Current research, accreditation, certification or licensing requirements, other.)

   There is increased global emphasis on earning the Chartered Financial Analyst Charter, and adoption of International Financial Reporting Standards increases the need for further educational offerings in financial analysis. While the certificate requires no new courses, it does arrange the required courses in a cohesive group to allow students to document their specialized work in financial analysis.

4. If your response to #3 refers to existing or potential student demand, please indicate the activities undertaken to estimate or verify the potential or existing demand for this new program.

No new courses are required.

9. If the responses to question 1 and any parts of question 6 other than additional faculty are “no,” please provide a statement as to how the department/school (or center or college) will manage the enrollment figures provided in question 5.

This is virtually a zero cost certificate program to create since all courses already exist, and administration costs will be negligible.

A transcript that is hand-delivered by a student is considered unofficial even if it does have a seal from the institution or received in an unopened envelope. In addition, students sending transcripts while coursework for a bachelor’s degree is in progress will need to send another official copy showing that they have been awarded a bachelor’s degree.

4. Acceptance into this certificate program does not imply acceptance into any other Missouri State University masters or doctoral program.

The following foundation courses (or their equivalents) are considered prerequisite courses for the Graduate Certificate in Financial Analysis program:

ACC 600 – Accounting Concepts for Managers (typical equivalent is ACC 201 and ACC 211)

ECO 600 – Fundamentals of Economics (typical equivalent is ECO 155 and ECO 165)

FIN 600 – Managerial Finance (typical equivalent is FIN 380) with a grade of B- or better

NEW PROGRAM RESOURCE INFORMATION

Program Title and Degree:  Master of Applied Second Language Acquisition

Department:  Modern and Classical Languages Department and English Department

Attach on separate sheets (1) statement of rationale and objectives, (2) estimated costs for first five years, and (3) complete catalog description (including new courses and course changes pending approval).

[Note: For new programs requiring CBHE approval, CBHE forms NP, PS, and PG will satisfy #1 and CBHE form FP will satisfy #2.]

1. Is another program being deleted or altered?  Yes  No

2. If this program affects other departments or colleges, has a memo showing how it will affect them been attached to the proposal?  Yes  No

The program itself directly involves 2 departments, Modern and Classical Languages and English. The elaboration of the program structure, including the required courses, and electives, was completed with considerable consultation and discussion between the departments, including both faculty and department heads.

3. What justification is being provided to support this proposal? (Current research, accreditation, certification or licensing requirements, other.)

This program is being proposed to restore our current academic offerings to include a Master’s degree, in response to various initiatives put forward by the State to increase the number of graduate degrees awarded in critical fields, and in underserved areas. In addition, the discussions for the joint Master’s with the English Department started several years ago, because we recognized the intersecting principles of Applied Second Language Acquisition, and we wanted to put the cumulative knowledge of our respective faculty to the service of the students. Lastly, we are proposing this program to respond to trends in Language Studies in this country, which have turned their focus to language as the product, rather than simply the vehicle for literature. (For further explanation and justification, please refer to the Statement of Rationale and Benefits and other documents that are part of this package.)

4. If your response to #3 refers to existing or potential student demand, please indicate the activities undertaken to estimate or verify the potential or existing demand for this new program.

A TESOL graduate certificate track exists within the English dept, with a verified existing demand based on current enrollments. The curriculum proposed here is a new format to recognize the shared pool of academic knowledge and practices around Second Language Acquisition. The French and Spanish tracks are being developed after positive response from regional K-12 teachers and recent MCL bachelor’s degree recipients on the need for just such a program. (See MDHE form SE for further information regarding demand and enrollment projections.)

5. What are the present/future projected enrollments for this program?

1st year 6  3rd year 10

In five years, how many students must be:
a) declared minors to justify this new minors continuation n/a

b) declared majors to justify this new majors continuation 13, all tracks combined

6. Which of the following would be needed to implement the proposed program? (Check all that apply.) Individuals responsible for specific areas outside of your college must be consulted.

   Additional library holdings?
   X Yes  X No

   Additional technology or other supplies?
   X Yes  X No

   Additional or remodeled facilities?
   X Yes  X No

   Additional travel funds?
   X Yes  X No

   Additional faculty?
   X Yes  X No

   Additional support staff?
   X Yes  X No

   Other additional expenses?
   X Yes  X No

7. Have the individuals responsible for allocation of these resources been contacted to ensure the availability of these resources by the time the program is implemented?

   X Yes  X No  X Yes, but cannot ensure availability

8. Referring to question 6, if additional faculty are not required, please provide a statement as to how faculty will be made available to teach proposed new courses, if any, or to manage increased enrollments in existing courses which are to be included in the proposed new program.

   Current faculty within the English and Modern and Classical Languages departments possess both the knowledge and experience to teach these courses; in addition, they hold Graduate Faculty status. The courses in English are currently being taught, so the initial increase in class size will not be consequential. When the initial cohorts increase, further demands of faculty resources may need to be revisited. As for the MCL faculty resources, the undergraduate enrollments can be managed to allocate faculty for the timely delivery of the graduate courses, since they will often be in the evenings or online. Graduate Assistantships will also be part of the program and, after training in the first semester (where per-course instructors will be hired), GTAs will teach beginning language courses, so that full-time faculty may be reassigned.

9. If the responses to question 1 and any parts of question 6 other than additional faculty are "no," please provide a statement as to how the department/school (or center or college) will manage the enrollment figures provided in question 5.

   The English courses within this degree program are already being offered regularly in that department, with current faculty. The Modern Language courses will be offered most frequently outside of traditional schedules, since many of the enrollees are projected to be in full-time work already as K-12 teachers. The courses themselves will also be offered frequently in an online or blended format. With the success of the program, it may be necessary at a later date to add a faculty member in Applied Linguistics. This need has been addressed in an MCL hiring plan submitted to the COAL dean and to the Provost.

The signature of the individuals listed below ensures that the items above have been addressed and the resources needed will be made available when the program is implemented.

The Master of Applied Second Language Acquisition (MASLA) is a flexible degree program that combines training in topics pertinent to second language acquisition theory and practice, including linguistics, research and teaching methods, and materials and assessment design, with advanced discipline-specific coursework focused on the areas of TESOL, Spanish, and French. It is designed for anyone with an interest in teaching one of these languages, including currently certified teachers. MASLA Graduates will be well qualified to teach languages in a variety of settings, both in the United States and abroad.

Admission Requirements

In addition to the general requirements outlined in the Admission to Graduate Study section of the Graduate Catalog, applicants for admission to the MASLA program must fulfill the following requirements:

1. Hold a bachelor's degree in English, French, or Spanish, or a bachelor's degree in another field and significant coursework and/or experience relating to the focus areas of this program (linguistics, language teaching, foreign language proficiency, etc.);

2. Have a minimum overall GPA of 3.00 in all previous university-level coursework;

3. Provide Graduate Record Examination (GRE) general scores (verbal, quantitative, and analytical sections);

4. Submit a completed Missouri State University Application for Graduate Admission.

5. Candidates wishing to pursue the TESOL track must submit the following to the English Department:
   a. Submit a Graduate Assistantship Application if the prospective student would like to be considered for this award;
   b. A personal statement (a 200- to 250-word description of the reasons and goals behind the applicant's interest in graduate studies in TESOL);
   c. At least two letters of recommendation from individuals able to speak of the applicant's academic achievements and potential;
   d. A writing sample (a 10-12 page academic paper written in English).

6. Candidates wishing to pursue the French track must submit the following to the Modern and Classical Languages Department:
a. Submit a Graduate Assistantship Application if the prospective student would like to be considered for this award;

b. A personal statement (a 200- to 250-word description of the reasons and goals behind the applicant's interest in graduate studies in French);

c. At least two letters of recommendation from individuals able to speak of the applicant's academic achievements and potential;

e. An official ACTFL Oral Proficiency Interview score of at least Advanced Low dated within the past three years.

7. Candidates wishing to pursue the Spanish track must submit the following to the Modern and Classical Languages Department:

a. Submit a Graduate Assistantship Application if the prospective student would like to be considered for this award;

c. At least two letters of recommendation from individuals able to speak of the applicant's academic achievements and potential;

d. Evidence of written proficiency in Spanish consistent with the ACTFL Advanced Level (an official ACTFL Writing Proficiency Test score dated within the past three years or a 5-10 page academic paper written in Spanish);

e. An official ACTFL Oral Proficiency Interview score of at least Advanced Low dated within the past three years.

Applicants will be notified once their application is complete. Students who do not meet 2 and 3 above but who show high promise may be admitted conditionally. As conditions of admission, they may be required to take extra courses to make up deficiencies (including weaknesses in writing) or they may have other requirements stipulated.

Transferred Courses

Candidates may transfer up to nine hours in coursework taken at other regionally accredited institutions into the MASLA program. However, any decision regarding credit for transferred courses is subject to the terms of the Transfer Credit policy outlined in the Graduate Catalog.

Double Counting of Coursework

TESOL track MASLA students may double count toward the MASLA all 15 hours of coursework taken as part of the Graduate Certificate in TESOL. Up to nine hours of coursework may double count toward the MASLA and the M.A. in English or Writing.

Teacher Certification/TESOL Endorsement

The MASLA is not a teacher certification program and does not contain a certification or endorsement option. One of the purposes of the program is to allow presently certified foreign language teachers to pursue a master's degree in their fields. Prospective MASLA candidates who are not certified to teach in Missouri but who wish to seek certification in Spanish or French or to add a TESOL endorsement to an existing certification should speak with an advisor in the Department of English or in the Department of Modern and Classical Languages. They should also contact the Teacher Certification Office for additional information on certification options for post-baccalaureate students.

Executive Summary: About This Program

The Master of Applied Second Language Acquisition at Missouri State University, with its three language tracks, will emphasize the processes of language-learning and proficiency development, integrating both the formal and the cultural aspects inherent in languages. Its candidates will already possess personal experience in language-learning, but the program will train them to be leaders whose knowledge of Second Language Acquisition and related attitudes exhibit cultural competence and community engagement.

These students reinforce verbal skills and gain vocabulary in their native languages based on their knowledge of the target language; they also learn new structures, new attitudes, new tastes and new perspectives. Their language study allowed them to develop an acute sense of place and symbol as part of a culture. Language Professionals have the responsibility and the opportunity to present symbols and values of the target culture at their true weight, which leads students to a golden opportunity for critical thinking and analysis of the symbols and values of their home culture. The discovery of such parallels often brings students closer to understanding how societies form and establish their cohesiveness. Oftentimes, language plays a key role in assimilation and representation. It also makes them more conscious of how certain populations can be marginalized in the absence of a common will or protective structure. The cross-disciplinary aspect of the process, and the program, seems evident, as students will be looking at architecture, artistic creations, and geographic sites of worldwide cultural value and significance, and determining how each category contributes to or reflects linguistic elements that they have studied.

The faculty in this program is multi-national, with a wealth of cross-cultural experience in languages, migration, and integration. Several of the faculty have taught in other countries, either a second language or their native language to international groups, either in the state educational system, or in the private sector. Student research will undoubtedly draw on such professional experiences in its articulation, but may well be applied or developed to serve diverse populations locally or nationally. These Language Professionals may accept positions in local schools, they may also choose to work anywhere second language training is required—in business, in government, in non-governmental organizations. They may equally decide to go on to a PhD program in Second Language Acquisition or the individual language. The originality and strength of this program rests in its collaborative and multi-faceted nature, since it will provide students with a unique environment in which to explore and understand the individual complexities involved in a specific language, and the collective commonalities of second language acquisition.

Program Title and Degree: Applied Behavior Analysis, M.S.
Department: Psychology

Attach on separate sheets (1) statement of rationale and objectives, (2) estimated costs for first five years, and (3) complete catalog description (including new courses and course changes pending approval).  [Note: For new programs requiring CBHE approval, CBHE forms NP, PS, and PG will satisfy #1 and CBHE form FP will satisfy #2.]

1. Is another program being deleted or altered?   ___Yes   ☒No

2. If this program affects other departments or colleges, has a memo showing how it will affect them been attached to the proposal?   ☒Yes   ___No

3. What justification is being provided to support this proposal? (Current research, accreditation, certification or licensing requirements, other.)

See attached MDHE proposal for full review of ABA and employment opportunities.

In addition to the above, there is current opportunity for graduates of this program to gain certification as an Applied Behavior Analyst, and to further gain licensure within the state of Missouri. The February 2013 autism and autism coverage report to the Missouri Legislature by the Department of Insurance, Financial Institutions and Professional Registration reported that since state licenses for behavior analysts were first issued in December of 2010, 162 people had obtained licensure at the master’s level. Although this is a positive sign of growth and contributes to the services for several individuals in need, many counties, particularly those in rural and Southwest Missouri do not have a single licensed behavior analyst to provide services. As a result, despite insurance of treatment, many still cannot access care. And, as 2014 approaches and the Affordable Care Act mandates that individual and small group policies also provide coverage for treatment, the need with increase further.

The Missouri Department of Mental Health noted that “The lack of licensed behavior analysts is causing delays in developing individual support plans and providing care and treatment.” As such, the DMH, in the 2013 Caring for Missourians report, recommended that efforts be made to increase the number of licensed behavior analysts practicing in Missouri. Within Greene County there are less than 15 licensed analysts to provide services, and many surrounding counties have no licensed practicing professionals.

It is our belief that the proposed program will produce graduates who will meet a need within our community.
